

STRIKERS ARE IN MAJORITY

Tie-Up Of The Postal And Western Union Lines Centering In Chicago Is Complete.

POSTAL OPERATORS LAST TO LEAVE

Local Offices Open But Doing Practically No Business-- Postal Company Operators Were Orderly.

Janesville today feels the effects of the strike which has been declared in Chicago. At both the local telegraph offices messages are taken by the managers with the distinct understanding that they will be forwarded if possible. For matter outside of Chicago, the Milwaukee offices of both lines have thus far been used as a clearing station, but it is possible these will be closed before night. Local businessmen depending upon the telegraph for quotations relative to their business have been forced to use the Long Distance telephone.

The chief operator at the Wisconsin telephone office says that the number of calls for Chicago connection has been enormous, that every city on the line is rushed with orders and delays are frequent owing to the number of calls waiting for use of the line.

The same is true of the local telephone company, the Rock County, and cities and connections on its line are using this telephone freely. Manager Eitch of the Postal says that all he has heard from the Chicago office this morning was "Send" when he opened his key. He is receiving messages for outside points with the understanding that delays may occur. Connections are made through Milwaukee as the clearing office. Manager Romney of the Western Union says that his Milwaukee wire is working but he also is receiving messages subject to delay in transmission.

Situation in Chicago

Following the strike of the Western Union telegraph employees all the Chicago employees of the Postal company, struck yesterday at 6 p. m. The business of both companies is paralyzed. Probably 3,000 operators, messengers and checkmen are on strike.

Outside of Chicago

At this hour it looks as if the telegraphers' strike will become general all over the west and south. Western Union operators are out in Kansas City, Los Angeles, Denver, Salt Lake, El Paso, Springfield, Mo., Helena, Mont., Dallas, Tex., New Orleans, Fort Worth, Tex., and Colorado Springs.

St. Louis and Omaha decided not to go out for the present.

In many of these cities both telegraph companies are affected. Probably 5,000 men are now on strike.

In Chicago

Chicago telegraph operators of both the Postal and the Western Union companies are on strike this morning. Commercially the city is a wilderness. Postal employees walked out at 6:08 yesterday afternoon. Few were the keys that sounded last night. And it promises to be more serious today. The Postal operators did not merely shut down as one man they closed their instruments and left the big office on the tenth floor of the Illinois building. There was great excitement. The 100 men and women on duty when the order came to strike abandoned their chairs and stood about in groups discussing the sudden event. They were soon asked to leave. Some refused. Then Superintendent Capen of the Postal called for two policemen, not them and demanded that the operators vacate. There was nothing more needed.

Strike Not Entirely Sympathetic

The strike of the Postal men, while probably sympathetic, is based, say union officials, on persistent and deliberate violations of a contract entered into last September governing hours, wages and promotions in the service.

The entire country is affected. Business is at a standstill. Stock exchanges are without news. Commercial exchanges are paralyzed and communication on social matters is out of the question. The strike has Extended to all parts of the west and is encroaching upon the east.

The strikers are supremely confident. They are orderly. No overt act, so far, has been committed. And the leaders declare they will suppress any attempts at disorder. Cots have been placed in the Postal office, where nonunion men will be invited to sleep. There were three men only in the office last night. These were Gus Carroll, an operator; Fred W. Holmes, acting night manager; and Benjamin Seymour, wire chief. It was said that at the Western Union, of a total of 1,100 employees, less than forty were at work.

The Postal has a local force ordinarily of 400. Many of this number are women. When the whistle sounded they were as eager to show loyalty to the union as were the men. Not one remained. Here and there, in the Western Union, a girl may be found, slowly, unevenly, tired, red of eye and weary from long duty, sending a message. But there are not many. All telegrams are taken "subject to delay" and "at the sender's risk." Not only have the operators gone out, but they have been followed by lineamen, messenger boys, bookkeepers and other employees. The strike is general.

Wireless Silent in the South

New Orleans operators for both the companies having left their keys last night, the south is generally without means of communication. Kansas City is without a clicking instrument. Dallas, Tex., is just as isolated. El Paso swells the list, while Helena, Mont., Denver, Salt Lake and other western centers are in commercial gloom. What today may bring forth is problematical.

The strike has not reached the Atlantic seaboard. Whether it will or not remains in doubt. Officers of the telegraphers' union say they will carry the war into all sections before they are gone through and unless the Postal and the Western Union companies come to terms. And equally as positive and emphatic are the officials of these two corporations in the statement that there are no grievances to adjust; that the men are striking without cause; that the companies will not grant further concessions, and that, in time, the wires again will be ringing with messages, every key busy, all business promptly dispatched.

This was especially the case when it came to a matter of bathing suits, which were of great variety. A feature of the day was the great crowd of summer visitors from the cottages and hotels along the coast. They came in carriages and automobiles to see the fun, and early in the afternoon there were fully 3,000 people on the beach watching the rural visitors taking their annual dip.

DEMOCRATS WILL LOSE A LOT OF STRONG SENATORS

Some Are Succeeded By Republicans--Minor- ity Will Have Several New Members Of Political Faith.

[RECEIVED BUREAU OF TELEGRAPH]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—The election of Joseph E. Johnston to succeed Senator Pettus of Alabama is an interesting addition to the small company of democratic senators who next December will find seats on the minority side. The newsmen, besides Senator Johnston, will be John H. Bankhead, succeeding John T. Morgan of Alabama; Jefferson Davis, succeeding James H. Derry of Arkansas; Robert L. Taylor, succeeding Edward W. Carmack of Tennessee; and Thomas H. Paynter, succeeding Joseph C. Blackburn of Kentucky. John Sharp Williams, recently chosen at the Mississippi primary to succeed Senator Money, will not take his seat until later.

Besides those succeeded by democrats there were four other democrats—Clark of Montana, Gearin of Oregon, Dubois of Idaho and Patterson of Colorado—who were succeeded by republicans.

Bankhead of Alabama is the only new democratic senator to take his seat in the Sixtieth congress, who comes straight from the house to the senate. Senator Johnston comes from private life, though he is not without experience as a public servant, having been governor of Alabama from 1896 to 1900. He is a lawyer by profession, but is better known as a financier. He was the first president of the Floss Iron and Steel company and is credited with having accumulated a large fortune in late years.

Senator Davis was last in the public service as governor of Arkansas. Senator Paynter comes from the Kentucky circuit bench, to which he was Madison Traction Magnate Files His Survey For Road From That City To Stoughton.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 10.—P. W. Montgomery, president of the Southern Wisconsin Traction Co., which owns the Madison street-car system, has filed maps with the state railroad commission showing the route by which he proposes to build an interurban road between Stoughton and Madison, a part of the Madison-Janesville line. He says that his attorneys have advised him that the enactment of the public utilities bill and the Indiana non-duplication bill change the situation materially and relieve him of the necessity of getting a franchise from the Madison common council to do interurban business. He says that all he needs to do is to convince the commission that the proposed line would be a good thing and is in fact necessary for the convenience of the public, so that he may get from the commission a certificate of necessity and convenience. In this belief he seems to be correct, for he now has a line to South Madison, to which he can attach his proposed interurban line and then he can carry his cars over his Madison tracks under his present urban franchise.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

The decision of Judge Landis, in the noted Standard Oil case, has turned the current of reform away from railroads for a few days and centered it on the "great American octopus," Standard Oil.

The $20,000,000 judgment is discussed as lightly as the fine of a few dollars for an ordinary drunk. Governor Cummins of Iowa has added to his Chautauque notoriety by declaring that "it ain't his enough." Commissioner Smith has discovered that but for the great monopoly the price of oil for the past twenty years would have been materially less, while Secretary Garfield takes hold of his book strap and pulls himself up to announce that when the Standard gets through with the 10,000 other companies, the company will have to go some.

The only talent required to discuss the weather and the railroads is a tongue and the ability to wag it. This list of simply questions has been enlarged by adding to it "Standard Oil," and all over the country today people are talking about the prospective advance in price to meet times and hard expenses.

One of the standing jokes of the present generation, sprung by everybody when Rockefeller makes a donation, is to the effect that it doesn't cost him anything, for all he has to do is to add a penny to the price of oil, and plenty of people believe that this is the policy pursued.

The Standard Oil company has been found guilty of receiving rebates from a railway company, at a time when all large shippers were clamoring for similar favors, and many of them successful in their demands.

Like the crimes of life insurance companies, it required a quickened conscience and much reform agitation to brand the rebate as an unpardonable sin.

But the nation is standing on advanced ground today, and theoretically we are attempting to believe that all men are equal, and given an equal opportunity. An equal degree of success would crown all honest effort. So the national government and the several states attempt through reform legislation to regulate opportunity, so that it will smile on all men alike.

It is a futile effort, as time will demonstrate. The Western Paper company was an unholy combine which handled the output of most of the western mills. The government stepped in and the paper trust disappeared from the map. For a few months the market was demoralized and prices declined. Then the mills all sold out to one company and business was resumed at the old stand.

Paper advanced 25 per cent, but unlike oil, the advance created no commotion because the publishers were the only people affected and they are largely in the minority.

The Standard Oil company may be fined out of existence, as perhaps it should be, but some combination strong enough financially to handle the product will succeed to the business.

A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the small producer, but business is a cold-blooded proposition, and absolutely devoid of sentiment. Oil will be bought where it can be bought the cheapest, regardless of who produces it.

The mail order house and the department store have ruined more small dealers during the past twelve months than the Standard Oil company ever put out of business, but their catalogues are found in every home, and their patrons include all classes of people.

The local dry-goods man complains that his neighbor, the clothing man, patronizes the city for his carpets and dress goods, and then tells you what a bargain he secured in Chicago on the suit he is wearing. No local pride, no small dealer, no other consideration but the bargain counter. This is business in cold type as it ever has been, and always will be. It is one of the unwritten laws of trade which no amount of trust-busting can regulate.

The Standard Oil company recognized this principle early in its history, and prepared to serve, not one section, but all sections of the country, with its products at popular prices. Oil fields were opened up in various parts of the country, pipelines were established to eliminate transportation charges, and then tank stations were opened in every town and city, the barrel expense abolished, and the goods delivered at the door of every merchant at practically a uniform price.

From coast to coast the price of oil is practically as uniform as the price of sugar, and it is not exorbitant. There are 60 by-products of kerosene oil and on these the vast sum of money, which has swelled the Rockefeller fortunes, has been made. Gasoline is a limited product, and the rapidly-increasing demand, and short supply means a steadily advancing market.

There are always two sides to a question, and while the people are jubilant, and reformers shouting over Judge Landis' decision, it is well to remember that the judgment is not yet paid and probably never will be. The highest tribunal in the land is an unprejudiced tribunal. It possesses judgment to discriminate between a commodity rate and a rebate, a proposition with which the Chicago judge was evidently unfamiliar.

The state of Iowa sacrificed its manufacturing industries twenty-five years ago, through a policy brought about as the result of the same sort of ignorance, and the state has suffered in consequence ever since.

When the supreme court confirms the judgment of Judge Landis there may be occasion for universal rejoicing, but that is not likely to happen. The confiscation of property either by law or lawlessness is a serious proposition, and while it may be popular just now, it will not stand the test of sober second thought.

The business of regulating other people's business is fascinating to a great many people, and persistently followed is more or less contagious. It has become an American epidemic, during the past few years and will continue to absorb attention until the fever subsides. It is more annoying than dangerous, and while the Standard Oil company, like the Western Paper company, may be forced to disband, the same men, or some similar combination with sufficient brains and capital, will continue to handle the business. In the meantime the price of the commodity will be within reach of the masses, as it has been for the past quarter century.

Baron Rothschild—Patrol.
Sheboygan Journal: Baron Rothschild, the famous Paris banker, has been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Baron has done more for France in the way of lending the government money at a high rate of interest, than any other living man.

From the Male Standpoint.
Green Bay Gazette: Because he twitted his fiancée upon her age, as they were applying for a marriage license, the fair damsel refused to wed a Philadelphia man the other day. That little bit of joking probably saved the fellow from a whole life of worry.

Vain-Glory of Scow-Captain.
Neenah Times: Rumor comes that the printers at Kaukauna threaten a strike. This reminds us of the captain of an old scow that used to sail on the St. Clair river. He was great on show, and when passing the big schooners and brigs he would shout to his crew: "All hands on deck! both of you!"

Millwaukee's Bitter Disappointment.
Exchange: Just as Milwaukee commenced to feel certain her new auditorium would be completed in time for one of the big political conventions next year, along comes an unexpected complication in the shape of a lawsuit over the proposed site, which may knock the entire plan into smithereens. Too bad.

Those Fifteen-Cent Shaves.
Oshkosh Northwestern: Janesville barbers have agreed to increase the price of shaves from ten to fifteen cents, and as a consequence there is said to be an unprecedented demand for razors in that city. By the time the barbers find they are losing a good share of their trade they may be very glad to get back to ten cent shaves.

Justice Brewer's Bad Break.
Whitewater Register: "The world is growing better," says Associate Justice D. J. Brewer of the Supreme court. That cooks his goose for Chautauque engagements. There is no sensation in that. It's the fellow with the wild eye, one who believes that the world is out of gear and things are going to the devil in a quick pace, who, apparently, finds the most favor with Chautauque managers.

Bob is Not Satisfied.
Milwaukee News: And curiously enough, Senator La Follette has been heard to remark to a newspaper reporter that the line loved against Standard Oil was not half enough. If Robert had his way, to hear him talk, he would cut the trusts alive. And yet during all the time that he was governor of Wisconsin not a single trust was disturbed, though the state is the habitat of the lumber trust, the paper trust, and a horde of lesser combinations for plucking the public.

Whither We Are Drifting.
New York Commercial: If the anti-corporation hysteria is to be encouraged by the premature of the West and the good-bye of the South for another week or two we shall see an utterly demoralized body of investors awaiting the outcome, but with their funds carefully tucked away. The fact is, the Administration is being gradually forced into speaking its mind and speaking it emphatically on the side of conservatism and moderation, and possibly federal law as against statutory enactments. There may be a great many evils in the corporation practices in this country, but it is idle and worse than idle, it is positively dangerous, to attempt to reform them in a single season. To take a single evil and so attack it root and branch as to positively extirpate it as a threat to the public good, would be so much more sensible as well as safe. It is the attacking of so many evils at one unfortunate time that is apparently upsetting the investment and business interests of the country.

Madison to the Mississippi.
Madison Journal: In view of the work now being done to improve navigation between the lakes in this country, it will not be considered a wild stretch of the imagination to predict that within twenty years launches on a smaller scale will be able to make the run easily between Madison and the Mississippi river. This means also the possibility of launch and motor boat trips from Madison to the Gulf of Mexico.

The State Journal referred a few days ago to the efforts being made to raise money to dredge the channel between Second and Third lakes. When this work is completed, as it can be within a year of property owners on second lake and owners of launches will contribute the eight thousand dollars necessary, the two years following will witness the dredging of the Yahara between First and Second lakes. Already owners of property on First lake have expressed a willingness to contribute to continue the work from Second to First lake, as soon as the projected work from Third to Second lake is completed.

From the outlet of First lake to the Rock river at Jefferson very little if any dredging would be necessary. When the Rock river is reached the only problem is the construction of locks at the dam between Jefferson and the point in Whiteside county, Illinois, where the Rock empties into the Mississippi.

Green Fruit Picked in China.
All Chinese fruits are picked green and ripened off the plant. The Chinese farmer is too anxious to sell his crop or too much afraid of thieves to wait until the fruit is properly ripened.

Exchange: Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis looks on the horizon as a republican candidate for the presidency but let us hope that he has sense enough to appreciate that the federal bench is not a spring-board for the presidential swimming hole.

Exchange: The American Tobacco company, better known as the tobacco trust, has just declared its regular dividend of 2 1/2 per cent, together with an extra dividend of 7 1/2 per cent. Another red flag for the "trust busters."

Neenah's La Follette Club.
Neenah Times: It is said a movement is on foot to organize a La Follette club in Neenah. A former "fair-minded Democrat" says he was approached to join, but that he "has the matter under advisement."

Far-Fetched, But Let It Pass.
Oshkosh Northwestern: Just because Daniel's comet is said to be racing toward the earth at the rate of 50,000 miles a second it is no excuse for some of those automobilists who are bent on trying to break the speed laws.

TRUST BUSTING

The most popular man in the hearts of the American people today is President Roosevelt.

Why?

Because he stands for the "square deal" to the common people as well as to the corporations.

He takes the side of the people who need things and against the combinations that would take advantage of their needs, to extort undue gains.

These are days when lots of men find it to their profit to combine and raise prices.

In Dentistry, Dr. Richards of Janesville holds aloof from all local combinations and maintains his prices on a living, reasonable basis.

One lady recently saved $17 on her dental bill by selecting him to do her dental work.

He does the BEST of work. His prices won't far you.

JAMES HICKEY RUN DOWN BY AN AUTO

Miraculously Escaped Severe Injuries Under the Wheels of Michael Dubois' New Runabout This Morning.

One of the first automobile accidents which has occurred here in almost a year's time took place on South Main street about half past eleven o'clock this morning. Michael Hickey was driving his new Maxwell runabout at a slow rate of about four miles an hour and was about to get off the street car tracks. Suddenly James Hickey, a typewriter operator who has been spending his vacation here with his mother, Mrs. Mary Hickey, 220 Oakland avenue, had started to cross the thoroughfare in a diagonal direction from Anthony's book store. He was caught between the mud-gear of the right front wheel and the hood and knocked down and the rear right wheel ran over his neck according to the statements of spectators. Friends rushed to his aid and with their assistance he was able to get up on his feet. Blood was streaming from a small cut on the right side of his forehead and he had been badly bruised and shaken up. Dr. James Gibson, to whose office he was immediately taken, dressed the wound and Mr. Hickey was able to walk from the office without assistance a half hour later. With a heavier car going at a higher rate of speed such an accident could only have resulted fatally, and Mr. Hickey and the driver have cause to congratulate themselves on the narrow escape.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOSEPH ABBOTT

In Milwaukee This Morning Brings Sadness to Relatives and Many Local Friends.

Thomas P. Abbott received a message from Milwaukee, today conveying the sad tidings that his brother, Joseph Abbott, who had suddenly been taken ill, died at half past one o'clock this morning. Deceased was born in Janesville thirty-five years ago and spent many years employed in the Schorow-Richardson shoe factory. Nine years ago he accompanied the concern to Menominee, Michigan, and sometime later went to Milwaukee where he was married. Besides his wife and a son, he is survived by his mother who resides in Milwaukee, and three brothers: Thomas of this city; Edward of Waukegan, and John of Milwaukee. Scores of local friends will be saddened by the news of his untimely death. The remains will be brought to this city at 8:20 this evening and the funeral will be held from St. Mary's church at nine o'clock Monday morning. Interment will be made at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

FOUR SCHOOLS IN COUNTY ON LISTS

Afton, Orfordville, Fulton and Shepards on the Lists for Funds This Year.

Superintendent C. P. Carey has announced the annual appointment of state aid for first and second class graded schools of Wisconsin for the year ending June 30. The total amount of state aid apportioned was $70,100, of which $18,000 went to first class and $21,500 to second class schools. The graded schools are classified according to their attendance, number of teachers and departments. In order to participate in state aid graded schools must comply with certain study requirements, employ a certain number of teachers holding certain average daily attendance. Some of the schools that have applied for state aid have not fully complied with the requirements of the law and until they do so such aid will not be given them. Supt. Carey says that in cases where the failure to comply is due to the thing of reports and similar things the aid will be given, as soon as the necessary reports are filed or other necessary acts performed. Under the law governing the apportionment of aid for the present year the maximum amount that can be given to a school of the second class is $100. The legislature, however, at its recent session passed a law increasing it to $200.

The Rock county schools to receive money from this source are Orfordville $200, Afton, Fulton and Shepards $100 each.

A dance will be held this evening for which music will be furnished by Knott & Hatzel's orchestra. A game of baseball was played this afternoon between nine chosen from the Janesville machinists and the Lino City's fans.

MORTUARY MENTION.

Baby Lorino Hines.

Lorino Hines, age two years, eleven months, and twenty-five days, died of spinal meningitis at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bennett on Mineral Point avenue at 3:30 this morning. Deceased was the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines who live on Race street. The funeral will be held on Monday.

Peter Lennox.

Peter Lennox, who left this city 22 years ago, died in Chicago yesterday. He was 73 years of age and had made his home in Chicago during recent years. ESCAPES INJURY IN EXCITING RUNAWAY

Mrs. Michael Rabyor's Horse Breaks For Liberty and Overtakes Dugby Smashing It—Mrs. Rabyor Unhurt.

About five o'clock yesterday afternoon, a horse driven by Mrs. Michael Rabyor of 58 Elizabeth street annoyed by loose straps which had either not been fastened or become loosened, leaped over the side near the corner of Main and Court street and making a dash for liberty across the Court street bridge, struck a pile of bricks in front of the new Hostetler building, overturning the buggy and throwing Mrs. Rabyor out. He continued his mad career, dragging Mrs. Rabyor several feet before she dropped the lines and after demolishing the lug by mowing down and persons on the bridge was stopped near the Riverside hotel. Mrs. Rabyor was unhurt and able to arise without assistance.

PILL MIXERS PLAN FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Will be Held at Crystal Springs Park on August 28th.

Arrangements have been made for the annual picnic of the Rock County Drugists' Association. This year it will be a picnic and boat ride up the river. Tuesday, August 28, the boat will leave at 10:30 a. m., going up to Crystal Springs Park, where the meeting will be held, followed by a big dinner.

Several of the wholesale houses have sent in prizes to be competed for by the visiting druggists and their wives, so there will be some games.

At 3 o'clock the boat will leave for a trip ten miles up the river, showing the visitors Rock river and the cottages along the banks. Edward Duse, E. O. Smith and Harry Ransom will look after the boat and life preservers. E. B. Holmstrom, J. P. Baker and Geo. King are in charge of the dinner and refreshments, while William Sherer, Otto Smith and William Pfendig will attend to the visitors as a reception committee.

Nearly every druggist in the county has already staidified his intention of being present with ladies and a number of the drug traveling men will also be present. No class of businessmen in Rock county seem to be in such close communion and have as much fun as the druggists.

DISAPPOINTED WITH THE TOBACCO CROP

Season Has Not Been Just Right for Successful Results This Year.

The most notable thing about the growing crop of tobacco in the disappointment everywhere expressed over the progress made in the fields of late, says the Edgerton Reporter. There was a week or ten days following the heavy rainfalls when the crop made scarcely a step or no advancement and a great deal of unevenness was all the time developing, while the late set fields for a time stood still. Then a cold wave followed in the wake that seemed to paralyze vegetation for awhile. The most reasonable solution of the situation is that during the wet weather the roots did not penetrate the soil deeply, but lying so close to the surface and the soil being closely packed by the rains, cultivation could not be had for some time, so the plants immediately began to show the effects of the dry weather that ensued.

The result has been to still further delay the late fields and put them where only the effects of weather conditions are necessary to bring them into the reckoning of the present crop.

Topping of the earlier fields which ought to be due this week is held back in consequence. More reasonable weather, however, has prevailed this week and the outlook is improving, though at best we can hardly speak as encouragingly of the new crop as we would like. Compared with other years at this date there is a marked disappointment. A great deal depends upon the kind of weather we shall have the next thirty days. A warm August with plenty of moisture may improve the situation, provided we have immunity from frosts in early September.

With weather conditions much more favorable to the growing crop, the prospects have somewhat improved during the week. Several rains have fallen, succeeded by warm temperatures, promoting a more satisfactory growth. The first light storms, covering limited areas, have been reported from the Rio and Westby sections, doing some damage to the early fields. Topping will commence in the most forward fields the coming week and there is plenty of work to be done in promoting the later set by frequent cultivation if they are to be brought up to a harvest.

The cured leaf market shows a little improvement but transactions so far have not been very plentiful. H. T. Sweeney sold a 100-case lot to Tansie & Co., Chicago, who also purchased 100 cases or more of other dealers in this market during the week. A few out-of-town dealers have been in the state of late feeling the pulse of local holders but have failed so far to close any large deals.

The shipments out of storage reach about 500 cases from this market to all points for the week past.

Trinity church—1st Sunday after Trinity, Holy communion 7:30 a. m., Matins 8:15 a. m. and Services 10:30 a. m., Rev. T. M. Sharpe of Springfield, Ill., will officiate.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

How Cy Danton Young Pitched His First Game, Defeating Chicago.

Cy Danton Young of the Boston Americans, though he has been pitching ball seventeen successive years and is still a strong twiler, says that he will never forget that August day in 1890 when he took his place on the firing line for the Cleveland club against the Chicago team. Cy at this time was a green country boy, fresh from his father's farm at Gilmore, O., where the only practice he had in throwing the sphere was put in back of the barn.

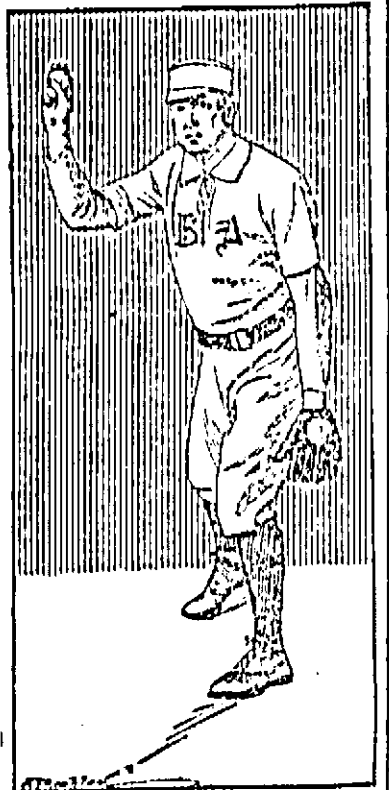

Cleveland heard of Cy about the latter part of July, invited him down to the park for a tryout and set the day for Aug. 5, 1890. Young was there on the date specified and was put to work against Chicago, then a mighty four-some bunch. Only one man besides Young who played in that memorable game is in harness today, and that is George Davis, who is with the Chicago Americans.

Young was then the same awkward appearing chap that he is today, and his awkwardness on that August afternoon was further intensified by the fact that there was no uniform in the club that would fit Cy, and he was given one that was five sizes too small for him and in which he made so ridiculous a figure that the Chicago bunch just lay down and rolled with laughter. Every one worked overtime in kidding the big, overgrown looking lube and pummed themselves all sorts of sport with his pitching.

Cy says that when he walked out on the field he had a feeling as if the heads of his shoes were made of pneumatic rubber. Every time he would take a step he would imagine that they were shaking down into the hard earth. He had a confused idea also that there was a crowd of people somewhere in the vicinity, but he couldn't for the life of him remember where it was.

The Chicago players, though, soon brought the big fellow out of his dreamy condition by jeering taunts, and this got Cy so angry that all his nervousness vanished like a flash. Gritting his teeth, he took his position in the pitcher's box with the stern determination to win that game in order to show the "mussy westerners" that he wasn't so green as he looked.

Nerved up to this pitch the untutored country boy shot his curves over the photo, and with such cannon ball speed that he soon had the bewildered Chicagoes at his mercy. He finally won his game by the score 8 to 1. He was hit safely but three times, gave only three passes to first and struck out five men, among whom were the redoubtable Anson, Killebrew and George Davis.

Odd things come up with the progress of a baseball game. How is a score to be made on a ball that is not a wild pitch, yet fools both batsman and catcher—the latter so much that he fails to get the ball in his hands at all? It is not fair to call it a passed ball. Often it happens that the catcher is hit on the wrist, the arm or other part of his person by a ball of this description, and it certainly would be rank injustice to credit him with an error.

Again, why should not a batsman who succeeds in bringing in the run on a squeeze play be credited with a sacrifice hit? If he goes out he throws away his chances for a hit for the express purpose of bringing in a run, and that is a sight more valuable to a team than a sacrifice that simply places a man on second and may or may not result in the scoring of a run. It would seem that the powers that be could get together on this point and say a thing or two.

The statement that the Maroons were blue over their outlook seems as contradictory as the assertions that the Cincinnati Reds are yellow.

THE OFFICE BOY.

Plugsey and the Man Who Was Looking For Information.

The big bell in the city hall tower had just banged forth the noon hour, and the office buildings were emptying throngs of workers into the streets to fill the lunch rooms.

In an elaborate office, seated in a large chair with his feet comfortably resting on the edge of the manager's desk, was Plugsey, the office boy of Janworth & Co., brokers. His head was cocked on one side, and with evident relish he was pulling a huge cigar which his employer had neglected to finish.

Suddenly the door opened and Mr. Whiff, a client of the firm, rushed in. "Where's Mr. Janworth?" he demanded excitedly.

"What's that?" said Plugsey, slowly removing the cigar from the far corner of his mouth.

"I want Mr. Janworth right away. Where is he?" repeated Whiff.

Just then the bell of a fire engine changed below, and Plugsey leisurely rose and walked to the window.

"Gee!" he said thoughtfully. "People do get scared of them fire carts, all right, all right." Turning around, he continued: "Doesn't he, I'm running the business just now. Want any quotations or?"

"No, you idiot!" yelled the client. "Where has he gone—downstairs?"

"Yes."

"Will he be back after lunch?"

"Naw," yawned the future firm; "that's what he went out after."—Lippincott's.

The Origin of the Name.

A northern tourist who was riding in a leisurely way through western Georgia stopped one hot day to rest at a cottage occupied by an old colored man and wife. "Enloe," he said, fanning himself with his hat, "how much farther is it to Colonel Jeffrey's big plantation?"

"'bout five miles, sah," answered the aged darky.

"Good road?"

"Mostly up hill an' down, sah."

"Have you ever been at the colonel's place?"

"I was down dah, sah."

"They call it the Renfrow, don't they?"

"Yes, sah."

"How did it ever get the name of Renfrow?"

TIMBER HAS MANY USES.

Value of Standing Wood That Has Been Through Flames.

The traveler who has wondered why some use is not made of the timber that has been fire-killed all over the country will be interested to learn that the United States forest service at the University of Washington, Seattle, has discovered a means of utilizing this timber, which in the past has largely gone to waste. In testing fire-killed timber—that is, timber which had its bark destroyed by a fire not severe enough to entirely consume the tree, and which left it standing—it was found to be thoroughly sound and, to all intents and purposes, thoroughly seasoned lumber. It was determined that if such lumber is cut within the first year after it is injured it can be used for any purpose for which the original wood is satisfactory, but it allowed to stand the timber checks so badly that it cannot be worked up to advantage. It has also been disclosed by investigations undertaken that good railroad ties have been made from timber that in some instances was killed 50 years ago.—Philadelphia Record.

THE BANDAGE SLIPPED OFF.

Thereby Exposing a Ruse to Save the Family Pride.

A Kansas City professional man, who is prominently identified with Missouri politics, tells the following story on himself: "My folks moved from Indiana to Johnson county, Missouri, when I was six years of age. We settled on a farm near Holden. The first Sunday we were there, and while the family was preparing for Sunday school, it was discovered that I did not have any shoes. My mother, realizing that 'folks would talk' if one of her children made his first public appearance barefooted, suggested that I have a cloth tied around one foot to create the impression that I was unable to wear shoes because of a sore foot. So the rag was tied on me. Everything went along smoothly and I learned all about what-a-little-name's bears eating the bad children up, when I heard a snicker from a boy I afterwards liked. He was pointing to my right foot. I glanced downward. The rag had slipped off and my mother's ruse was exposed."

Too Hasty Interruption.

A prominent citizen of a certain New Jersey town is a Sunday school superintendent, a druggist, and an editor. A New Yorker called upon him recently for the purpose of purchasing his drug store, and found him in the barroom of the hotel. "Now," said the aforesaid prominent citizen, "as superintendent of the Sunday school I never take a drink." At this point the New Yorker informed him that he himself (though wishing himself beyond Suzie) did not drink. "And," he continued, "as druggist, I never indulge, but as editor I occasionally take a drink." The New Yorker in relating the incident declared that it taught him not to interrupt people in the middle of their speeches.

Waste of Wood in America.

Every person in the United States is using over six times as much wood as he would use if he were in Europe. The country as a whole consumes every year between three and four times as much wood as all the forests of the United States grow in the meantime. The average acre of forest lays up a store of only ten cubic feet annually, whereas it ought to be laying up at least 30 cubic feet in order to furnish the products taken out of it. Since 1880 more than 700,000,000,000 feet of timber have been cut for lumber alone, including 80,000,000,000 feet of coniferous timber in excess of the total coniferous stumpage estimate of the census of 1880.

A hand overflowing with silk and money.—Madame.

Out of Work.

One of the senators from Georgia tells of a darky in that state who sought work at the hands of a white man. The latter inquired whether the negro had a boat. Upon being answered in the affirmative, he said: "You see that driftwood down the stream?" "Yes, sah," "Then," continued the other, "row out into the river and catch it. I'll give you half of what you bring in." The darky immediately proceeded to do as instructed and for awhile worked hard. Then, of a sudden, he ceased to labor and pulled for the shore. "What's the trouble?" asked the employer. "Look hyar, boss," said the darky indignantly, "dat wood is jest as much mine as yours. I ain't gwine to give yo' any. So I'se outer work again!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Rebel Yell.

To know truly what the "rebel yell" was, one must have heard it with the din and the roar of the rifles and the thunder of the artillery; with the shrieks of the wounded and the groans of the dying; must have seen mother earth being discolored with the rich blood of valorous men. "When Greeks joined Greeks, then was the tug of war," when Americans met Americans it was then the "rebel yell" was given birth. It was a thing to inspire brave men to action, to give resolution strength; to the coward it was a consuming terror. The man who could stand unbalanced in the face of the real "rebel yell" in the days of its strength may justly lay claim to a courage that knows no faltering.—Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal and Tribune.

Comparing Notes.

"My teacher's name is Brown," said the first little girl. "My teacher's name," replied the other little girl, "is Davis, but I don't know what color it is."

Sherman Vindicated.

A New York poet makes "war" rhyme with "Aha!" Gen. Sherman was right.

Herbs.

The housekeeper who has a kitchen garden—some women have conducted quite successful herb gardens in boxes on window-sills—need not be dependent upon the put-up herbs for seasoning. The herbs raised in the home garden are much more pungent when dried, and when thoroughly crumbled should be packed in airtight receptacles. In drying mint for winter's use, pick the herbs before they bloom, hang heads down in the garret, or spread on sheets of paper. When quite dry put in paper bags, again heads down, fasten tightly, and suspend from the garret beam ready for future use.

The Legal Fare.

Ambassador Bryce, at a dinner, gave a young lady some tips on European travel. "And above all," he said, "don't fail to tip your cabman liberally. Hansoms and four-wheelers would be cheap in London if one only paid the legal fare for them, but he who tries to pay the legal fare—well, he doesn't live more than once. One day I saw an old lady stop a hansom, look up at the driver, and say timidly: "Driver, I want to go to Ludgate Circus. I see by the book that the legal fare is two shillings. If I give you three will you promise not to swear at me afterwards?"

Stung!

"Let me kiss those tears away!" he begged, tenderly. She fell for it, and he was busy for the next 15 minutes. And yet the tears flowed on. "Can nothing stop them?" he asked, breathlessly. "Nope," she murmured. "It's hay fever, you know. But go on with the treatment."—Cleveland Leader.
